

The Potter's Hands Foundation is a faith-based 501(c)(3) organization. Our desire is to help women who have been trapped by the oppression of human trafficking to find hope and healing from the trauma they have endured. We are dedicated to providing a safe and secure environment in which the women we serve will receive counseling while being nurtured in physical, emotional and spiritual healing and equipped with the skills necessary for self-reliance and reintegration to society. Just as a potter molds and shapes his clay into a beautiful creation, our hope is that these women will find new purpose and meaning as they are shaped into the beautiful creation God intended them to be.

A Note to Our Sponsors

When you join us in this important work, you are literally saving lives. The stories of the women we work with include sexual torture, imprisonment ranging from locked sheds to luxury homes, and violent beatings leaving lifelong injuries. The heartbreaking evidence of these stories is among the personal items that they have in their possession when they arrive.

By partnering with us, you are giving them a second chance at life. With your help, we are giving them the opportunity to overcome. They become empowered. They begin to dream about their futures and work toward fulfilling those dreams of going to college, having a family, helping other women who have also been sexually exploited and sex trafficked. Would you join us by sponsoring our 2020 Hands of Hope Gala?

“ I had nowhere to go, so when Anna offered me a place to live, I happily accepted. What I didn't realize was that Anna was moving us both into the apartment of a trafficker. ”

“ You are worth it! I have been here for almost two months, and I have been clean from heroin and crack for one year. It can be done. I was scared to clean up and get into a program, but here I am. I'm going to be going to school. That's amazing! ”
